Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 12 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Heavy showers overnight but otherwise largely dry and cloudy. Windy.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry evening for many, with scattered showers mostly in the southwest. By midnight expect a band of organised, often heavy, showers. Should clear east within a few hours, leaving behind clouds with a few scattered showers. Windy and cold. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Saturday:
Mostly dry but cloudy to start, with the odd scattered shower. Showers easing and clouds clearing throughout the day. Remaining windy and cold, however. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday mostly dry but windy with rare showers to start, leading to rain in the afternoon. Monday mostly cloudy with clear spells. Tuesday mostly cloudy with outbreaks of patchy rain.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.